FYI- Having students read their own directions is to help them become more independent in doing their work. They can ask me questions if they do not understand a direction. I am also not giving them a second chance to follow directions carefully, anymore. Once they place their paper in my basket they will get the grade they deserve based on how well they followed the directions. I tell them to read and reread those directions and then check their paper carefully before they turn it in. Some students need to slow down. Mrs. Prill
